KENNEDY KQUALITY PREPARED BULBS FOR EARLY FORCING

Our specially prepared bulbs for early flowering again this past winter proved superior in earliness, size and number of flowers. To shorten the growing period of different types of forcing bulbs we have perfected the process in curing and precooling which makes their forcing earlier and one hundred per cent productive. As a result of this special preparation all our prepared bulbs bloom from twenty-one to sixty days earlier than the same varieties taken from regular stock.

ANEMONE (Windflower)

This beautiful flower has caused great comment at recent flower shows due to its wonderful color combinations and its usefulness as a cut flower.

CULTURAL SUGGESTIONS FOR GREENHOUSE GROWING

Plant Anemones any time from September until February. Place tubers close in a flat of clean sand, cover 1 inch and keep moist. Place in cool house for a week and tubers will be sprouted and ready to plant in pots or bench 4 in. apart each way. Use virgin sandy loam about 5 in. deep, containing about 10 percent well-rotted manure. Success depends on cool growing conditions, night temperature should not go above 45 degrees; 38 degrees at night will produce larger flowers. Water sparingly until plants are growing well then give plenty of water and occasional feeding. Maximum light and ventilation should be provided at all times. Perfect drainage is essential.

GREENHOUSE GROWN BULBS

We wish to call your attention to our list of greenhouse grown Freesia bulbs. All of these varieties are greenhouse grown, in sterilized soil. While such bulbs are more costly to produce we cannot recommend their use too highly when the result is compared with that of field grown bulbs. Another advantage to be gained from greenhouse grown stock is their response to early forcing which makes a Freesia crop certain for the Christmas holidays.

California-grown Freesia bulbs proved so unsatisfactory the past few years that we have discontinued all except greenhouse-grown stock, which our customers have found far superior in every respect.

KENNEDY KWALITY HARDY LILIES

The Lilies we offer are all perfectly hardy and will produce a quantity of beautiful flowers of various colors, which effect cannot be duplicated by any other flower. Lilies are very adaptable for herbaceous borders or for planting among shrubbery. Bulbs should be planted at least twice their own depth and if the soil is heavy it is desirable to use a quantity of sand under the bulbs to provide drainage.

Explanation: The numerals refer to the season of bloom, thus 6 would mean June; 7, July; 8, August.
